

Ashok Kumar Elected Fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineering

The Board of Governors of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) has elected Professor Asbk Kumar to ASME Fellow statute is one of a select number of 3,437 Fellows awarded citations out of a total 123,857 ASME members. Fellow grade is truly a distinction among ASME members.

Dr. Kumar has made significant contributions in the area of innovative processing of materials including thin films, surface engineering, and nanotechnology for multifunctional applications. He has astrong commitment to integrate research and education that include the ducational outreach, science education and nanotechnology industrial outreach. He has received a number of honors and awards, including ASS Fellow, ASM Fellow, AIMBE Fellow, NSF CAREER, Professo Honorario, and Outstanding Professetc.

About ASME Fellow Membership

The ASME Board of Governors confers the distinction of Fellow grade membership to candidates who have been nominated by their peers, and selected by the Fellow Review Committee with final approval of the Committee of Past Preside These individuals are recognized for their distinguished career and engineering achievements.